RIVER UNUSED FOR 40 DAYS

CITY GETS ALONG WITH WATER IN RESERVOIRS.

NOT EXHAUSTED YET

Officials Are Much Pleased With Test of Capacity.—No Mud Despite Recent Floods.

Pumping of water from the 102 river into the city reservoirs was begun yesterday for the first time in forty days. During this period the water for the city's use has been taken only from the reservoirs, a thing which would have been impossible in the old days before the plant's storage capacity was enlarged.

At the end of forty days, enough water remained in the reservoirs that it could have been pumped at least for ten days more, and probably for twenty days if an emergency demanded it. Furthermore the reservoirs were by no means full at the start. Mayor W. O. Garrett and J. W. Qualls, superintendent of the plant, were much pleased at the demonstration of ample storage capacity. With lakes capable of holding a sixty-day supply of water for the city, the danger of Maryville ever being handicapped by a water shortage is practically eliminated.

Another advantage from the ample storage capacity is that during the recent flooded condition of the river, no muddy water came from the consumers' faucets. This has been commented upon by several persons who remember other occasions when it has been necessary for the city to pump water direct from a muddy river.

The water now being pumped into the reservoirs is not entirely clear but is in the best possible condition for treatment, Superintendent Qualls said. The water is more easily purified when it is taken into the reservoirs when slightly muddy than when it is clear, the superintendent said.

Services Held Today for Mrs. W. R. Jones

Grandson Accompanies Body Of Former Resident From Somerset, Va. —Buried Beside Husband.

The body of Mrs. W. R. Jones, who died Sunday night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. B. Newman, at Somerset, Va., arrived in Maryville this morning and funeral services were held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the home of W. C. Frank. The services were conducted by the Rev. R. E. Musgrave, pastor of the First Christian Church of this city.

A quartet composed of Mrs. F. P. Robinson, Mrs. R. E. Snodgrass, John Mutz and W. E. Goforth, gave two selections. The pall bearers were Earl Barmann, F. G. Shoemaker, R. P. Hosmer, George Herren, Arch Frank and G. B. Roseberry. Burial took place in Miriam cemetery beside the body of W. R. Jones and their daughter, Miss Mollie Jones.

The body was accompanied here by John W. Newman of Little Rock, Ark., a grandson.

Mrs. Jones was 85 years old on July 5. She was a former resident of Maryville for many years, leaving here about fifteen years ago.

Mailing Lists Can Be Revised at Postoffice

Mailing lists used by a number of firms in Maryville may be brought to the postoffice here and corrected for a charge of 65 cents an hour, according to a recent ruling made by the postoffice department. The correction would result in considerable saving to the firms, Eldon Irvin pointed out this morning, because a number of pieces of mail are regularly returned to the sender because of a mistake in the address. The charge is merely to cover the cost of the service.

Barnard Man Buys Home on East Third

Mrs. Nettie Warren has sold her five-room cottage at 509 East Third street to Hiram Groves of Barnard for a consideration of $2,650. Possession is to be given October 1. Mr. Groves bought for an investment. The sale was made by Yeo Brothers.

Pickering Couple Married.

A marriage license was issued this morning to Virnie King and Leonia Cox, both of Pickering, and they were married by Judge Jesse F. Robertson, probate judge.

College to Have a Forensic Fraternity

Pi Kappa Delta Accepts Petition to Establish a Chapter Here.—Several Students Eligible.

Pi Kappa Delta, honorary forensic society, is expected to establish a chapter soon at the State Teachers College here, the preliminary arrangements having already been made.

A petition signed by a number of students has been accepted by the national council of the fraternity. The chapter here is sponsored by the one at Central College, Fayette.

Pi Kappa Delta has several degrees of membership. For the degree of instructor, J. R. Wallin, debating coach, is eligible. John Paul Stone is eligible for the degree of honor, and Burdette Yeo, Clarence Bush and Richard Baker for the degree of proficiency. For the degree of fraternity, the following students are eligible: Heath Swisher, Fred Street, David Max, David Nicholson, Byron Beavers, Floyd Cook, Ermil Coler, James Sherer, Fred Kurtz, C. T. Richards and Mrs. Hazel Query.

FUNDS NEEDED FOR HELPLESS

SALVATION ARMY DRIVE IN COUNTY NEXT WEEK.

QUOTA HERE IS $500

Charles F. McCaffrey Named Chairman of Committee.—College Y. W. C. A. Members To Aid.

Charles F. McCaffrey has been appointed chairman of a committee to solicit funds for the salvation Army throughout Nodaway County next week.

The solicitation will extend throughout the week and a quota of $500 has been set for Nodaway County.

Assisting Mr. McCaffrey on the committee will be C. E. Wells, W. A. Miller, J. D. Richey and James Todd. Mr. Richie has been chosen treasurer.

Members of the Y. W. C. A. at the College will assist in the work, according to Mr. Wells.

Other towns in Nodaway County are urged to contribute to the Salvation Army fund and every effort will be made to secure the $500. Checks can be mailed to the Democrat-Forum office or to Mr. Richey at the Nodaway Valley Bank.

The drive next week has been officially approved by the Maryville Chamber of Commerce.

Everyone, especially the veterans of the late World War, know of the work of the Salvation Army. In discussing the need of funds, the committee made the following statement:

"What will $500 buy this year? It will buy clothing and food for little children from bankrupt homes. It will provide a warm and healthful place for babies to be born of unfortunate girl mothers. It will find employment for the jobless fathers of destitute children. It will provide quarters, food and clothing for men desperate with hunger; it will keep them from the streets, where they might plunder you or your neighbor. It will buy Christmas for those whose lives are filled with the darkness of poverty and the bitterness of failure. It will help maintain a training college for more uniformed workers of the Salvation Army, whose zeal and faith take them into the most gloomy recesses of the nether-world.

"It will buy the shade of trees and the murmur of cool crystal brooks for anemic children in our fresh air camps; it will help fill the cart of the penny ice man with cool and crystal chunks for the poor dying baby's milk."

Judge Woods' Home Completely Wrecked

Word received in Burlington Junction from Judge William Woods since his arrival in Hollywood, Fla., says that his winter home there was wrecked by the recent southeastern hurricane and that nothing was left except the floors and walls. The roof, plastering, exterior stucco and all the furnishings of the home were ruined.

During the storm, thirteen persons, including several small children, were huddled together for protection in one small room, and all escaped injury. Judge Woods' granddaughter, Miss Goldie Boyer, was one of the thirteen.

IN PLEA FOR SQUARE DEAL

HAWES WANTS RELIEF FOR AMERICAN FARMERS.

DECRIES DOMINATION

New England Retards Development Of Middle West, Democratic Senatorial Candidate Declares Here.

Harry B. Hawes, Democratic nominee for United States Senator, invaded agricultural Northwest Missouri yesterday and last night renewed his plea for a "square deal" for the farmers of the Middle West.

Speaking before an audience that filled the Circuit Court room, Mr. Hawes reiterated his belief that the United States is suffering from "New England domination," and it is high time for America to return "to the Jeffersonian principles of simplicity in government."

The Senatorial candidate was introduced by Ellis G. Cook, who was presented by Charles F. McCaffrey, Democratic county chairman. A number of women were in the audience last night. Dr. J. C. Whitsell of St. Joseph, Democratic candidate for Congress from the fourth district, was also present and was introduced.

For more than an hour and a half Mr. Hawes discussed the issues of the present campaign. H declared the growing tendency of centralization of power at Washington would result in autocracy. This, he said, was one of the principal issues.

"If I should select the over-shadowing issue of today, I would declare it to be the necessity of opposing the growing tendency to centralize power in the federal government," Mr. Hawes said. "Power is not only being centralized in Washington, but that power is being directed and controlled by the narrow and provincial view of New England."

This is the old conflict between those who believe the powers of government should be centralized in the hands of a few and those who believe that power should be retained by the states and the people themselves, Mr. Hawes believes.

Battle For Democracy.

"In a word, it is a battle between despotism and democracy. he Tmovement taught in recent years has been from the Democracy taught by Jefferson toward the monarchial system advanced by Hamilton.

"For over thirty years the patron saint of the Republican party has been Alexander Hamilton. They have followed his views on centralizing all power in Washington. It is cheering to note that in this campaign we are beginning to hear of opposition to bureaucracy by the Republican administration and its satellites.

"The advance towards paternalism is not so open, but it is more dangerous because it is more insidious. It progresses by stealth in the form of new bureaus, new regulations, new taking over of the local control of states.

"It is proposed that Congress will assume direction and control over every intimate thing in life. In fact, even before life itself, pre-marriage inspection is proposed. National control of marriage, national control of morals, national control of divorce, all to be regulated and directed by meddlesome bureaus in Washington. It was even proposed that the federal government should control our children. Once the federal government undertakes that control, it will be required to provide orphan asylums and support the indigent of the various states. It would be required to appoint the guardian and control the ward. It would soon follow that it would regulate the schools, clothes and habits of our children.

States Would Be Powerless.

"If this tendency of National control continues, each state in the union will be placed in the same situation as the District of Columbia, where Congress governs and the local people have no control over their local affairs. Soon there will be a demand for national control of our police. Then we will have a movement for national constabulary of police, with a national chief of police appointed by the President, who will direct and control the constables, sheriffs and police officers of our states and cities. When that happens, we will have established a military despotism upon the ruins of the Republic.

"We need more simplicity in our government affairs, more real economy

St. Louis Preparing Welcome to Cardinals

All Plans Are Ready For Monster Demonstration—Buildings Are Being Decorated.

St. Louis, Sept. 29.—St. Louis is preparing to welcome home the Cardinals, winners of the National League pennant.

Although the team will not return to St. Louis until next Monday after two games in the world's series have been played, all plans are ready for a monster demonstration to greet them. Buildings throughout the downtown section are being decorated with buntings and flags.

The first world's series game here will be played next Tuesday. After two more games here, the Yanks and Cards will return to New York for a sixth and seventh game should neither team have won the required four games.

QUAIL'S FATE UP TO VOTERS

PROPOSAL TO CLOSE SEASON WILL BE PUT ON BALLOT.

548 SIGN A PETITION

State Law Provides That County Court Shall Call for Vote If 100 Citizens Request It.

A petition signed by 548 voters of Nodaway County requesting that a proposal be submitted at the general election in November to declare a closed season on quail for the ensuing two years was filed in the county clerk's office today. The petition was presented by George S. Rasco and E. A. McBride, living in Grant township.

Under the state laws, a petition of 100 or more householders of the County was all that was required to get the proposal on the ballot. The court at its October meeting will order such a proposal put on the ballot.

The law in part follows:

"Upon the filing of a petition signed by one hundred or more householders of any county and presented to the county court at any regular or special term thereof more than thirty days before any general election to be had and held in said county, it shall be the duty of the county court to order the question as to whether or not there should be a closed season upon quail for the next two years in their said county submitted to the qualified voters, to be voted on by them at the next election. Upon the receiving of such petition it shall be the duty of the county court to make the order as herein recited, and the county clerk shall see that there is printed upon all the ballots to be voted at the next election the following:

For a closed season upon quail....Yes
No

Erase the word you do not wish to vote.

The returns of said election upon said subject shall be opened, canvassed and certified as the returns for general elections. If the majority of the votes cast upon such subject be in favor of the closed season upon quail, then it shall be unlawful to take, capture, or kill any quail or bobwhite within such county for the period of two years thereafter following the announcement of the result of said election, and the county court shall spread the result of such election upon its records and give notice thereof by publication in some newspaper printed and published in such county, and such law shall become operative and effective from the time such publication is made. Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor." (Laws 1919, p. 342.)

MEXICO IS HIT BY HURRICANE

STORM AND TIDAL WAVE LAY WASTE IN VERA CRUZ.

FEAR HUNDREDS DEAD

Americans May Have Lost Lives, But Communications Are Paralyzed—City Under Water.

Mexico City, Sept. 29.—With all lines of communication paralyzed and only ominous silence from a hundred square miles of territory in Vera Cruz state laid waste by the tropical hurricane which swept over the region yesterday, the outside world today could only guess at the extent of the damage and the loss of life in the isolated regions

Fragmentary wireless reports received here from Vera Cruz stated the hurricane was accompanied by a tidal wave. The principal parts of the city were reported under five feet of water and is still rising.

Smaller centers of population were struck by the storm and dozens of smaller villages were virtually wiped off the map.

Four steamships in Vera Cruz harbor were reported sunk and the crews lost.

Although government officials say it will be impossible to accurately estimate the extent of the storm damage and the loss of life, it is feared that hundreds have perished. Efforts by the American embassy to communicate with the American consulate at Vera Cruz and ascertain whether any American lives were lost have been unsuccessful.

The storm raged about Vera Cruz city for two hours. The wind reached a velocity of a hundred miles an hour. The weather bureau fears that a second hurricane possibly of greater intensity than the one of yesterday may now be raging between the city of Vera Cruz, Jalapa and Cordoba. The hurricane was reported traveling in a northerly direction.

Hi-Y Club to Help Keep School Clean

Frank M. Liddle, St. Louis Y. M. C. A. Official, Speaks at Meeting This Morning.

The Hi-Y Club of the Maryville High School started this morning the first of a series of discussions on a clean school. Plans have been made to begin a "service task" in making the school a cleaner place.

Frank M. Liddle, of the St. Louis headquarters of the Young Men's Christian Association, was a speaker. Mr. Liddle reports that Hi-Y clubs are doing very effective work in the high schools throughout the state and that more are being organized.

Mr. Liddle is not making any addresses before assemblies on this trip but visited the Hi-Y and Girls Reserve clubs and interviewed the council of the Hi-Y. He spent some time at the State Teachers College in conference with the Y. M. C. A. organization there.

The program of the Hi-Y this morning follows:

Ben Thompson, presiding.

Song, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

Scripture—Clyde B. Gibson.

Prayer—Jack Sorrie.

Discussion—"A Clean School," by Harold Daniels, Marvin Lyle and Paul Whaley.

Second Son Born to Mr. and Mrs. Lamkin

President and Mrs. Uel W. Lamkin announce the birth of a son at the St. Francis Hospital at 1:45 o'clock morning. The young man has been named Clem Dickinson, after Mrs. Lamkin's father, Congressman C. C. Dickinson of Clinton, Mo. Mother and son are reported doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Lamkin have one other son.

TO KANSAS CITY.

Miss Rose Flanagan of the Yehle Dry Goods Company went to Kansas City yesterday morning for a special course in "permanents" and marcelling.

Mr. and Mrs. I. T. Nash, Holt, Mo., are here visiting their daughter, Mrs. Virgil Rathbun and Mr. Rathbun, 1201 North Main street.

Mrs. J. G. Murray went to St. Joseph today.

Wesley Miller and son, Fred, of Burlington Junction, were in this city yesterday.

Filipino Vets Pledge Allegiance to U. S.

At Same Time, Factions Favoring Independence Plan Great Demonstration In Legislative Halls.

Manila, Sept. 29.—While thousands of veterans of the Filipino revolution assembled today to pledge allegiance to the United States, independent factions planned a great demonstration in legislative halls.

General Aguinaldo, the leader of the veterans and a staunch supporter of Gov.-Gen. Wood, is opposed to the independent meeting. Consequently, he has arranged for a parade and loyalty program in his home town of Kawit, outside of Manila.

Col. Carmi Thompson will be the guest of honor and will review the veterans who fought against both Spain and America.

TEAPOT CASE TO HIGH COURT

SINCLAIR'S ATTORNEYS WILL TAKE APPEAL.

LEASES ARE VOIDED

Albert B. Fall Is Given Verbal Lashing In Decision Handed Down In Federal Court.

St. Louis, Sept. 29.—The Teapot Dome oil reserve case will go to the United States Supreme Court for final review, according to word received here today following the decision in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals here, which voided the lease of Harry F. Sinclair and ordered the reserve returned to the government.

Attorneys for the oil magnate will prepare the appeal in the near future as the decision here reversed the Cheyenne federal district court and becomes effective within ninety days.

Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of Interior, who negotiated the lease with Sinclair, was given a verbal lashing in the decision.

Washington, Sept. 29.—The Supreme Court must now decide the famous naval oil reserve case. Attorneys for Harry F. Sinclair are expected to appeal at once to the Supreme Court for a reversal of the decision of the federal Circuit Court of Appeals, which ordered the cancellation of the company's leases to Teapot Dome.

The court already has granted an appeal to E. L. Doheny, whose lease of the Elk Hills reserve in California was declared void by the federal courts in that state.

Besides the civil suits, appeals on criminal indictments against Sinclair, Doheny and Albert B. Fall are now pending in the District of Columbia Court of Appeals.

Months and perhaps years may elapse before a final determination is made of all the oil cases which grew out of the Senate's investigation during the winter and spring of 1923-24. Arguments on the Doheny case are to be heard by the Supreme Court on next Monday or Tuesday. The decision in this case, an appeal for a writ of certiorari, is expected to have an important bearing on the final determination of the Sinclair appeal, both cases being practically identical.

Oll Coleman Sells Yearlings at $11.25

"A heavy frost in Nodaway county, Mo., late last week did very little damage to the crops which are well enough matured to stand it. The corn is more matured this year than it was a year ago at this time, and there will be a fair yield," said Oll Coleman of Hopkins, who was on the St. Joseph market Tuesday with a load of steers.

The 24 head of long yearling Shorthorn steers sold to Swift & Company at $11.25, a price well pleasing to the owner. The steers averaged 1030 pounds. Part of the load was purchased last fall and fed during the winter months on hay and a little oats. In the spring they were placed on grass and fed ear corn until time of sale. The bunch averaged 450 pounds when placed on feed and made a very good gain as well as a nice profit for Mr. Coleman.—St. Joseph Stockyards Daily Journal.

Attended Annual Meeting.

NEW YORKERS LOOK TO 1928

PAVING WAY TO AL SMITH'S NOMINATION.

PREDICT BIG VOTE

Leaders Declare Smith Will Be Re-Elected Governor by 500,000 Majority—May Carry Senator Through.

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 29.—The Democratic party in New York state was preparing today for an intensive campaign to re-elect Governor Alfred E. Smith and thus pave the way for the presidential nomination for the governor in 1928.

As they returned to their homes today, Democratic leaders appeared to be absolutely convinced that the first real step toward nominating Smith for President two years hence was taken here yesterday when the governor was renominated.

The leaders predicted that the governor would defeat his Republican opponent, Representative Ogden Mills, by more than 500,000 votes. They also expect that with the governor at the head of the Democratic ticket this year, Supreme Court Justice Robert F. Wagner, who was nominated for United States Senator, will be swept into office by an equally large vote.

Predictions have been made by the Democratic leaders that if Governor Smith is able to carry Wagner along to victory at the polls in November, the Democrats of the nation virtually will be forced to accept him as the presidential standard bearer in 1928.

Declare Oil Dealers Substitute Bad Oil

Kansas City, Sept. 29.—Discussion of alleged practices of substituting inferior lubricating oil for first grade oil in filling stations occupied delegates to the convention of independent oil dealers of four states here today.

George Husser, manager of the better business bureau here, charged that the practice was prevalent among some independent stations and that moral suasion should be used to curb it.

Daugherty Counsel Asks for Dismissal

Attorneys for Former Attorney-General Declare There Is No Evidence of Conspiracy.

New York, Sept. 29.—Motion for the dismissal of the conspiracy indictment against Harry M. Daugherty, former attorney-general, and Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian, was made before Judge Julian Mack at a hearing in his chambers today by Max Steur, chief counsel for the defendants.

Steur argued that no evidence had been submitted by the government to show that Daugherty or Miller were involved in a conspiracy as charged. He pointed out that the government had built its case on the destruction by Daugherty of the bank account records of himself. Mal Daugherty, his brother, and his old friend, the late Jesse Smith, but while the acts may have been wrong, there had been no evidence to show conspiracy.

The motion followed a ruling by Judge Max in which it was tentatively agreed that George R. Williams, former assistant of Miller in the alien property custodian's office, could not be regarded as a conspirator.

The ruling marked the first technical point won by the defendant.

Daugherty and Miller are on trial for alleged conspiracy in connection with the return to foreign interests of seven million dollars worth of American Metals Co. assets seized during the war.

TO HOSPITAL.

Mrs. Della Bosch, Blockton, was taken to the Missouri Methodist hospital in St. Joseph, this afternoon. She has been ill for two weeks and her condition is reported serious. Mrs. Bosch is a sister of Mrs. Edith Spurgeon and Howard Miller.

Weather

Partly cloudy to cloudy, warmer today; Thursday partly cloudy and warmer.

ATTAIN GOAL LONG SOUGHT

SUPERIOR CLEANING COMPANY DEDICATED TO COMMUNITY.

BEST IN NORTHWEST

New Plant and Equipment Is Complete and Modern.

In 1914, two brother, John and Sam Bithos, announced the opening of a Dry Cleaning Company in Maryville. The force employed by the company was composed of the two brothers, their equipment was modern but numbered only machines absolutely necessary to dry cleaning.

Today the Superior Dry Cleaning Company, managed by Sam Bithos, announces a formal opening of their new plant, a plant that has no equal in Northwest Missouri. Where before the Superior Cleaning Company had but the essential machines they now have a modern and scientific machine for every purpose. The Company employs eight people, each a competent and experienced worker in their respective departments.

While the Superior Cleaning Company will be open any working day for inspection, and it will be the rule at all times for visitors to be shown all they may wish to see, people of Maryville and district are being specially invited for the opening because of the particular arrangement made to have an expert in each department demonstrate the various "secrets" of Dry Cleaning.

Mr. Bithos said today that "It is another dream come true." Their dream has been to find a plant wherein a garment might be re-created so far as cleanliness counted, and this has been accomplished. The plant has been dedicated to Maryville and community as a plant worthy of the people who have patronized the Superior Cleaning Company.

"Eight-hour service if required" will be the rule at the Superior Dry Cleaning Co. Which means that if you are in a hurry for your suit or dress, and must have it back the same evening, it can be done.

Promptness of service will be one of the aims of this firm, and, so long as the plant can have the garment by 10 in the morning, it can be delivered the same evening, cleaned, without odor, and ready to wear.

New Modern Machinery Features Improvement

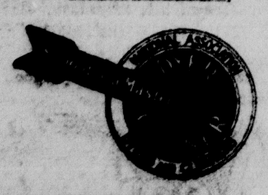
The layman would hardly conceive that so many different and individual pieces of machinery could be required or used in cleaning garments. And yet the Superior Cleaning Company has installed a new plant with entirely new cleaning and drying machines.

Washers, cleaners, clearifyers, tumblers, extractors, glove machines, rug machines, and pressing machines each assist in the work of re-creating the garments sent to the Superior Cleaning Company. Pictures of many of the new machines are shown elsewhere on this page.

Removes All Spots

One corner of the Superior Cleaning Company that will arouse much interest is the spotting unit. The worker that does the spotting must be a student of chemistry. He must analyze the spot in the fabric and make his selection from the various solutions before him, and almost like magic the spot disappeares. The wrong choice of solution in spotting would have no effect on the spot at all. The secrets of spotting, as well as the secrets of all modern dry cleaning, will be explained at the open house.

The Superior Cleaning Company boasts that they can remove any spot that it is possible to remove without damage to fabric.

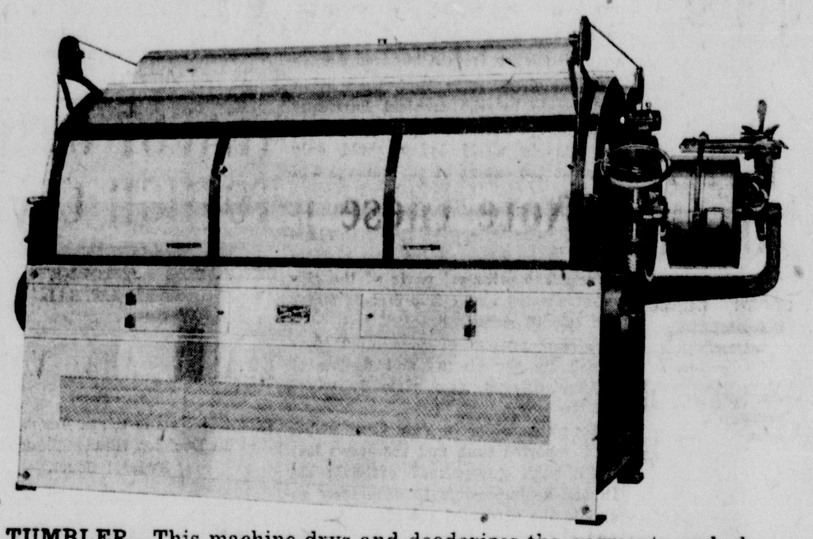


Members of the Master Cleaning Association

THE SECRET OF MODERN DRY CLEANING

We invite everyone, especially the housekeeper, in Maryville and the surrounding community to attend the opening of our fine new plant on Thursday and Friday, September 30 and October 1, at 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. At this time we will show you the secrets of modern Dry Cleaning. Whether you send your garments to the cleaner or whether you do all of your own cleaning—it make no difference. We want you to come and see just how Modern Superior Cleaners work . . . . how they remove spots, how large and small garments are cleaned ,and just how we press garments. Favors will be given. We invite you all to attend.

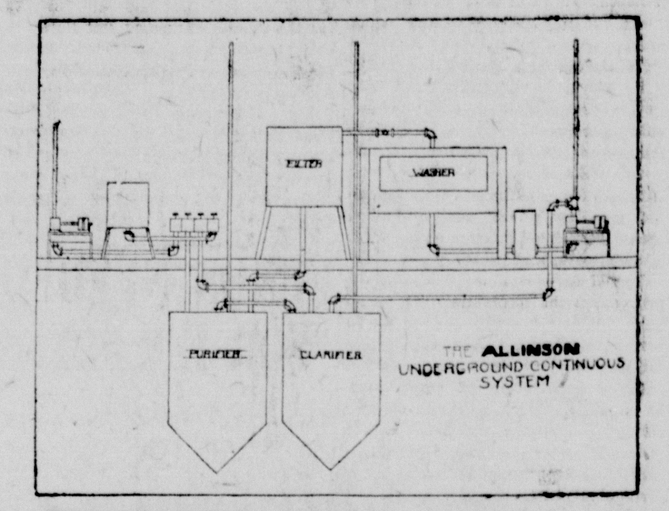
HERE IS WHAT YOU WILL SEE



TUMBLER—This machine drys and deodorizes the garments and also removes all lint from suits. A vast improvement over the old-style drying machines.

Our New Plant

The new Day-light Dry Cleaning Plant has been constructed just back of our building. It is modern and fire-proof in every respect, and contains all of our new machinery. We are very proud of this new plant and we sincerely believe that there is none to equal it in Northwest Missouri.



THE CLEARIFYER—This design shows both the above and below ground purifyers. This cleans and purifies 500 gallons of cleaning fluid an hour. It insures continuous pure cleaning water white fluid.

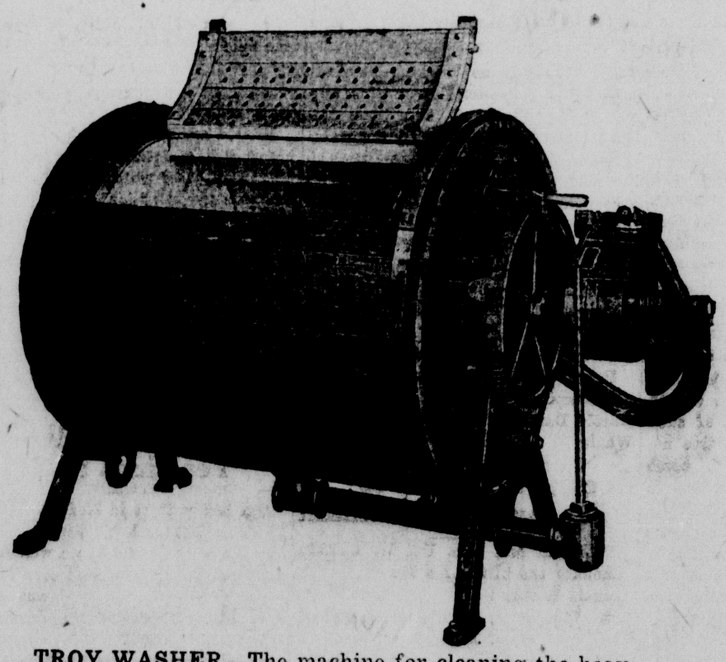
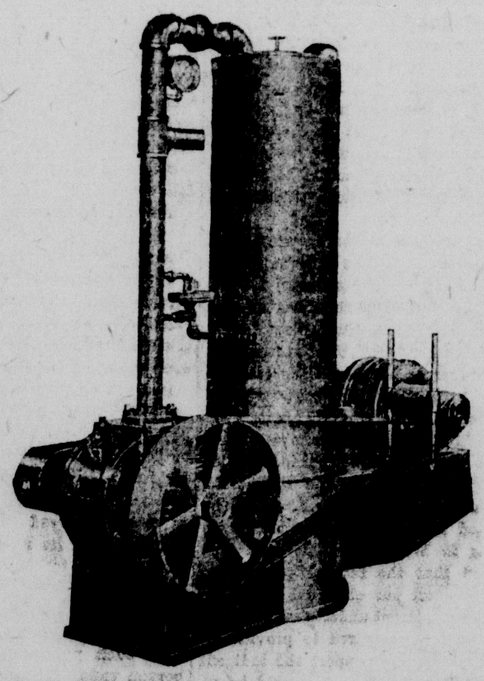
BOILER—A ten-horsepower boiler that is built of special design to furnish 100 per cent dry steam. Dry steam gives better service with absolutely no shrinkage.



TROY WASHER—The machine for cleaning the heavier garments such as coats and woolen clothes.



RUG WASHER—This is one of the two rug washers that we have in our new plant. Machines that will clean the most expensive and largest rug easily and without damage to the fabric.

EXTRACTOR—Runs 1100 revolutions per minute. This machine drys clothes thoroughly and uniformly.

The M. I. Circle met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. D. Ford. Devotions were led by Mrs. Ford. Roll call was responded by giving the Missouri prodnets and a paper on Missouri was read by Miss Addie Yeo. A paper on the State University was read by Mrs. J. E. Melvin and one on Map Drill, by Mrs. J. M. Hantz. There was also music.

McClanahan-Ellis.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss LaVeta McClanahan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McClanahan of Guilford, to Mr. John O. Ellis of Indianapolis, Ind. The wedding took place at Indianapolis, September 20. Miss McClanahan attended the State Teachers College here and is a graduate of Drake University. She was instructor in public speaking and dramatics at the State Teachers College for the past two years. She was granted a leave of absence this fall to study at Northwestern University. However, she did not enter that school, and has recently sent in her resignation from the college faculty. Mr. and Mrs. Ellis are at home at 1120 North Penn street, Indianapolis, Ind.

Church Party.

A party was held at the basement of the First Methodist Church last night for the members of the Intermediate department of the First Methodist Sunday School. Forty-five members and guests attended. A program and games made up the evening's entertainment. Mrs. Leonard Bosch, superintendent of the department and Mrs. Emma Eckles, one of the teachers were present. Miss Genevieve Miller announced the numbers on the program. Miss Bertha Claire Garten gave a reading. A piano duet was played by Miss Genevieve Miller and Miss Virginia Bennett. Miss Elizabeth Hull gave a farewell talk on the behalf of the students who will be promoted from the intermediate department Sunday. Miss Eleanor Stanfield gave the response. Donald Logan told a short story and Miss Virginia Bennett gave a piano solo. About twenty-five of the intermediate department will be promoted Sunday.

Club Luncheon.

Frolickers Club.

The Skidmore Frolickers met yesterday at the home of Miss Edith Porter. The members present were Mrs. Everett Linville, Mrs. Douglas Haynes, Mrs. Robert Wells and Mrs. William Barber. The guests were Mrs. Harry Reynolds, Mrs. J. C. Manning, Mrs. Alex Wells, Mrs. Roy Morgan, Miss Dora Albright and Miss Grace Karr. The afternoon was spent playing bridge. The next meeting will be held October 12, at the home of Mrs. Harry Mitchell.

Give Party.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn McKee and son, Billy, entertained with a party last night at their home on East Jenkins street. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Carmichael and children, Elnora, Donald and Lois, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hornbuckle, Mr. and Mrs. Roy McMullen and daughter, Eva Laverne.

Mr. McKee is employed at the Howard Wray Hardware Company. The family recently moved here from Pickering.

Accuses Aimee of Hoax

FADS OF THE FAMOUS.
JUDGE BEN B. LINDSEY.

When Judge Ben B. Lindsey was a small boy, long before he became known over the world as the founder of the juvenile court system, he had a great interest in aviation.

Flying is his main diversion from his work for the betterment of childhood. He first discovered it in his youth when a pioneer aviator built him a toy airplane that would fly.

Lindsey flies at every opportunity and finds aviation his greatest recreation. "In aviation lies the hope of the world," Lindsey said. "Like radio, the airplane is part of the evolution of things and it will revolutionize the world."

The time will come, he believes, when flying will make the globe too small to satisfy us and we will take a trip to the moon "to see what is going on up there."

War will be eliminted, frontiers will disappear, there will be a universal language and the nations of the world will be like one small family with harmony prevailing when the airplane reaches its full promise, Lindsey believes.

A decade ago the famous juvenile judge talked to Henry Ford about aviation, he said, but Ford considered it impractical and said nothing would ever come of it.

"Henry Ford has been a great benefactor to humanity with his automobile, but Edsel will go him one better, and become the greatest benefactor to humanity in 1,000 years if he does for the airplane what his father has done for the automible," added Lindsey.

"I love to fly," the "child's judge" concluded, "and I do so whenever I have an opportunity."

WYOMING VISITORS.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lavelle and son, Walter, of Casper, Wyoming, came yesterday to visit Mrs. Lavelle's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Edwards and Mr. Lavelle's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Lavelle. They made the trip by motor.

Banker's Money Didn't Help Him

"Have spent a fortune in doctoring. Twelve years ago I became afflicted with stomach trouble which steadily became worse. I frequently became prostrated with colic attacks and bloating. My doctors wanted to operate for gall stones. I wished to avoid an operation and on advice of a friend tried MAYR'S with excellent results as since taking it about 2 years ago my trouble has entirely disappeared." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract, and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded at your Druggist.—Advertisement.

MINERS ARE STILL ALIVE

RESCUE WORKERS STRIKE PASSAGE WAY.

"WE'RE ALL RIGHT"

Unless New Cave-In Occurrs Men Should Be Free in An Hour.

Ironwood, Mich., Sept. 29.—The forty-three miners imprisoned in the pabst mine of the Oliver Mining Co., here since last Friday are still alive!

This was determined unexpectedly this afternoon when a gang of rescue workers on the twentieth level struck a passage way leading directly to the underground prison.

"Hello up there; how are you?" members of the rescue party called.

Then down the echoing blackness of the opening came faintly, "We are all right and all alive.

Despite the smallness of the opening and the perils attendant upon the attempts to negotiate the ascent from the twentieth level to the eighth where the men are trapped, four members of the rescue party volunteered to make an effort to climb up the two hundred feet.

Unless a new cave-in occurs, which might cut off the rescuers, the men said they expected to reach the eighth level in an hour.

FAINT STOPS AIMEE'S TRIAL

MOTHER OF EVANGELIST COLLAPSES IN COURTROOM.

WITNESS IN GOGGLES

Mainstay of Prosecution Case Wears Disguise to See if Cottage Owner Can Identify Her.

Los Angeles, Sept. 29.—Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, mothr of Aimee Semple McPherson, collapsed at the preliminary hearing today of her daughter on charges of manufacturing false evidence, during the reading by District Attorney Keyes of the evangelist's testimony before the grand jury in which she described her kidnapping and detention for ransom.

The collapse of the evangelist's mother broke up the session of the court and it was postponed several hours in order to give Mrs. Kennedy a chance to recover.

When Keyes, reading the manuscript of Mrs. McPherson's testimony before the grand jury, reached that part in which the evangelist said she prayed to God that she might be able to return to Angelus temple, Mrs. Kennedy uttered a low moan and fell from her seat.

Cold towels were applied to Mother Kennedy's head and she was taken to the temple to regain her strength.

Judge Blake recessed the hearing for several hours.

Appearing at the hearing to tell how the evangelist hired and coached her in the famous "Miss X" hoax, Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman-Seilaff, pivotal prosecution witness, wore dark goggles and a big pulled-down hat.

The disguise, it was learned, was executed in order to determine whether H. C. Benedict, owner of the Carmel cottage where Mrs. McPherson and Kenneth G. Ormiston, her radio man, are alleged by the prosecution to have spent ten days following Mrs. McPherson's disappearance, can identify Mrs. Wiseman-Seilaff as the tenant of his cottage.

Benedict previously refused to identify Mrs. McPherson as the famous "Miss X" because, he explained, he could not even identify his own sister, "with goggles on and a hat pulled over her face." In staging the hoax Mrs. Wiseman claims she was the woman seen by Benedict. Benedict will be asked to identify her today.

Mrs. Wiseman's appearance marked Keyes' first direct attack upon the evangelist and her co-defendants in connection with the charges that they plotted to manufacture false evidence.

Bolstering up the foundation of the perjury charge, District Attorney Keyes today called William H. Parker, foreman of the grand jury which investigated the McPherson kidnapping, as the first prosecution witness.

In Plea For Square Deal

in government, less bureaucracy, less duplication of state laws by national laws, and less of the control of domestic affairs by law."

Turning to the important problem of farm relief legislation, Mr. Hawes blames the present high protective tariff for the farmers' ills. The man on the farm is forced to meet world competition on the things he sells and must buy in a protective market, the speaker declared.

Blames High Tariff.

"The farmer is in distress but he pays the full price of the tariff given to industry," he continued. "For five years, I waited in a Republican Congress for an opportunity to vote for some practical relief for the farmer. There have been discussions and speeches, as well as reports, but no great constructive effort was made through the action of the agricultural committee of either the House or the Senate. When the question was taken up seriously by the last Congress, under the pressure of New England, the door was slammed in the farmer's face."

Mr. Hawes accused his opponent, Senator George H. Williams, of "straddling" on the farm issue. The Democratic Senatorial nominee declared that Williams at one time declared the farm bill to be "economically unsound" and then on the final vote when the roll was being called alphabetically, "Mr. Williams discovered the bill had no chance of passage, so he voted 'yes'".

"Williams Sends Flowers."

"Mr. Williams' contribution to farm relief was to send flowers to the farmers' funeral," Hawes declared.

Referring to the Coolidge-Jardine proposal, Mr. Hawes said the farmer did not want to borrow more money, but he wanted an opportunity to pay what he has already borrowed by being put upon "an equal footing with other industries."

"The threatened insolvency of the farmer should force action. The time has arrived when technicalities must be set aside in the interest of practical assistance. I have been criticized because I decided the farmer must be given immediate consideration and voted for his bill. Frankly, I have reached that stage where I would rather make a mistake in his favor than one against his interest."

Discussts Waterways.

Taking up the question of internal waterways in the Middle West, Mr. Hawes again blamed the present high cost of transportation upon "New England domination."

"New England demands and gets her canals and harbors; and eastern cities secure their improvements, but the great heart of America, which furnishes food to the nation, stands year after year with hat in hand a suppliant for attention to needs of water transportation for the great central West.

"The opposition to our inland river improvements has always been Republican opposition; the New England mind, among other things, has never known or understood the states of the Middle West. The New England mind believes that ocean transportation is sufficient because New England is upon the ocean, and it looks with jealous suspicion upon our demand for a water highway to the ocean.

"Unless we break the present rule of New England, all of national money spent for waterways will continue to be spent largely for their particular benefit.

Road Progress Delayed.

"When we exercise the power of the federal government in developing a great highway system, to quicken and cheapen the cost of auto travel and tonnage, the opposition again comes from New England. The men from new England are fine men, kindly, congenial and patriotic, but they are tied to a narrow political philosophy for New England alone. They demand that their harbors and ports and coast have protection and let our highways and waterways beg for a share of the public expenditure."

Mr. Hawes reminded his audience that he knows something of the needs of Missouri, because he is a Missourian.

"I know something of the problem of good roads and waterways, because I have for many years worked for them. I know something of the railroads because I have served on the great committee of the House which deals with that problem. The general solution of this problem of the highway, the waterway and the railroads will be questions vitally affecting Missouri which I will seek to solve."

Urges Women To Vote.

Turning to a number of women near him, he urged they exercise their right of the ballot at all times.

"For it is to you women that the country must now turn for aid in the solution of the many problems confronting us. Although they were without the ballot, the women of the past have played a most important part in the making of American history."

Briefly discussing the recent primaries in Pennsylvania and Illinois, Mr. Hawes declared that "the nation has been shocked by the enormous expenditures in Republican Senatorial primaries.

"More money was spent in these two states alone by the Republican party than that party has spent in national campaigns during the last eight years," the speaker declared. "The voters of our country are aghast at these "million-dollar" primaries."

When the Reed resolution was introduced calling for an investigation into these primaries, Senator Williams voted "no," Mr. Hawes declared.

CUTS RECIPTS AT POSTOFFICE

FLOODS TO BLAME FOR REDUCED RECEIPTS.

SURVEY COMPLETED

More Than 3,800 Pounds Of Mail Handled At Postoffice Last Week Tabulation Shows.

Floods not only wreck havoc with farm crops but also greatly affect postal business, a survey completed at the Maryville postoffice shows today.

The survey made by Eldon Irvin includes all business at the postoffice here last week and shows a decrease in revenue of $144.91 over the same period last year.

Mr. Irvin blames the greatly impaired train service for the decrease in revenue.

The total receipts for the week last year was $582.41, while last week the revenue amounted to $437.50.

The receipts last week were divided as follows: First class mail, $320.23; second class transit, $1.82; third class, $15.34; fourth class, $98.84; foreign, $1.02; special handling, 25 cents.

The number of pieces handled and weights were as follows: First class, 15,417 pieces weighing 439 pounds and 3 ounces; second class transit, 34 pieces weighing 12 pounds and 12 ounces; third class, 676 pieces weighing 104 pounds and 13 ounces; fourth class, 607 pieces weighing 3,265 pounds and 14 ounces; foreign, 31 pieces weighing 2 pounds and 1 ounce.

The total revenue of $582.41 during the week in September last was distributed as follows: First class, $311.63; second class transit, $3.40; third class, $161.01; fourth class $105.34; foreign, $1.03.

Freshman Girls Keep Victorian Society

At a meeting of the beginning freshman girls literary society of the Maryville High School, it was decided to retain the name of Victorian. This title was held by the sophomore girls until that organization disbanded to combine with other groups.

Society colors and a society flower were decided upon. The colors are blue and gold and the flower is the sweet pea.

A committee to secure a motto has been appointed. They are Laura Jean Murdock, Marie Davis, and Dorothy Deneen. Miss Augusta Quell is the sponsor.

What Other Editors Say

YOUR CITY IS WHAT YOU MAKE IT.

Your City is just what you make it. The energy you waste could be profitably invested in your home town to your own and your neighbor's advantage. You should not overlook the debt you owe your home town. What you invest in it in public work will return to you in many ways. What a city is depends on what its citizens put into it in energy, thought and intelligent effort. The best medium through which to invest your efforts for public improvement is the Chamber of Commerce. Before you criticise it find out what it is doing. Those best informed regarding the Chamber of Commerce know of its inestimable value to any city.—Mexico Ledger.

SPENDING TOO MUCH; SAVING TOO LITTLE.

(Kansas City Star.)

"Too bad about Jim. He was a hard worker, made pretty good money, but somehow he never could accumulate anything. It seems he ought to have been in an independent position. Yet he has practically nothing, is about done for in active business and is being pushed aside by younger men. It isn't a very pleasant picture that Jim faces now."

The subject of such remarks would not be hard to find. He may be Jim or John, Joe or Tom. It isn't the name that matters. It's the situation. Every person knows of such situations, perhaps of too many of them. In many cases the familiarity is entirely too intimate. It is really a tragic situation; and tragic, usually, because it need not exist.

It is estimated that only three or four men out of every one hundred who reach the age of 65 accomulate enough to make them entirely independent of relatives or friends. Yet a financial authority and a careful observer declared recently that any man, with only a moderate income, who sets out to do it at a reasonably early age may become independent by the time he is 60. Not wealthy, mind you. But in a position where he need not worry about the future, where he can live in comfort and need look neither to his children nor other relatives for assistance. The principal requirement is that a person shall exercise a reasonable self-control in spending and discretion in the investment of moderate savings.

Too often the idea is accepted that the standard of one's material well-being is in the amount spent rather than the amount saved. In too many cases there is a foolish kind of rivalry in the possession of things. A neighbor or friend has something, and the conclusion immediately is reached that it is a necessity. One thus becomes a slave of things. And since there is no end of things that one may have, the desire to have and to get becomes insatiable. Unhappiness, as well as extravagance, is the result.

Everyone has acquaintances who are paid well but are assuming obligations they cannot possibly meet. They are burdening themselves to an extent that means worry, perhaps less efficient work, eventual loss and maybe suffering. Those persons who are wise and choose to look ahead a few years will avoid this common and seemingly endless practice.

Stewart's WASHINGTON LETTER

By Charles P. Stewart
NEA Service Writer.

Washington—Campaign orators are in unusual demand this year. There are more calls for them, the two big parties' speakers' bureaus report, than in the average presidential fight.

In this matter of speakers the party in power is at something of an advantage because its men are in all the higher executive positions, and on the stump their titles give them prestige. The Democrats have to be contented with mere senators and representatives. The Republicans have a batch of cabinet members to draw on and, in an emergency, the president himself.

There is no announcement, indeed, that President Coolidge will do any stumping, though he may have something to say by radio.

Cabinet Men to Speak.

Several members of the cabinet, however, will be personally in the field before the end of October. Postmaster General New, Secretary of War Davis, Secretary of Labor Davis, Secretary of the Interior Work and Secretary of Commerce Hoover already have promised their services, as well as Assistant Attorney General Donovan and Assistant Secretary of the Navy Robinson.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, Secretary of Agriculture Jardine, Secretary of State Kellogg and Attorney General Sargent are not mentioned as prospective orators.

Secretary Mellon is well known to shrink from direct political contacts. His speech in behalf of Senator Pepper just before the Pennsylvania primary is said to have been the first he ever made and his obvious sufferings then undoubtedly were such as to preclude any probability that he ever will repeat the experience.

Things are never perfect. Towns that have the most parking room are seldom prosperous.

Burlington Junction

(J. Howard Thompson, Correspondent.)

Charles Caldwell returned last Friday night from northwest Nebraska, where he had gone some days before, for the purpose of buying cattle for his feed lot. He shipped back four carloads and placed them upon his farm west of town.

Burlington Junction had her first real frost Saturday night. When the sun rose Sunday morning, the white particles glistened everywhere. Then, to add to the appearance of coming winter, in the afternoon the first snow of the season fell.

Every interest is now centering in the proposed bazaar to be staged in a few weeks by the women of the Methodist Church. Last year they had a net gain of $660 and they are hoping to do even better this year. The women of the various departments are working very hard to achieve success.

The Rev. J. Howard Thompson, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church, reports a busy week, just closed. On Tuesday afternoon, he gave a special address before the W. H. M. S., of his church; and on Friday night, he performed a like service before the Community Club of the Star School district. On Wednesday he conducted a funeral, and on Saturday performed a marriage. All this was in addition to his regular work in getting ready for his Sunday services. The life of a preacher and pastor is a busy one.

The Misses Etta and Georgia Ellen Trusty and Evelyn Hackett, students at the State Teachers College in Maryville, were week-end visitors at their homes here in Burlington Junction. Our town is largely represented in the State Teachers' College this year.

Mrs. Mary Stewart returned to her home from Clarinda, Ia., after an absence of a number of months. During her stay in Clarinda, she was cook in a restaurant. She came home to look after her holdings here during the winter.

Earl Brown and son Harry, living northwest of town, having secured the contract for township road work near Hopkins, moved their equipment to their place of work Tuesday morning. They expect to be gone about four weeks as it will take them that length of time to complete the job.

James Westfall, who has been spending the summer with his son, George, southwest of town, will go to Ottumwa, Ia., within a few days, where he will spend the winter with a married daughter. During his stay in and around Burlington Junction he has made many friends who will regret his going.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Fordyce have moved from the north part of town into the Bert Monk property, in the south part of town. The exchange of homes was made Tuesday morning of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank McGary, their son and two daughters, all from Hendricksburg, Ky., are here visiting Mr. and Mrs. John Rhodes and family. Mrs. McGary is a sister of Mr. Rhodes' mother. This is the first trip west for the McGary family. They will return home this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Monk left Monday for Fresno, Cal., to spend the winter. They left by auto. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Monk of Hastings, Neb. They took the southern route, and will visit on the way.

Miss Sara Jordan, of Council Bluffs, Ia., is here visiting Miss Clara Graves. She is a former resident of Burlington Junction. She will return home early next week.

Mrs. Lon Monk left last Monday for Guyman, Okla., where she will visit for some weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Monk have a married daughter in Guyman. She traveled that far with Mr. and Mrs. Bert Monk on their way to California.

Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Williamson of Elmo were in town Tuesday morning on their way to Burr Oak, west of Skidmore, to visit their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Winney. Mr. Winney was pastor of the Methodist Church in Burr Oak.

William Huston is in Omaha this week, buying cattle for his feed yard. He has a couple of car loads now about ready for the market, and as soon as his yards are empty he will fill them again. He is one of the leading feeders of Northwest Missouri.

P. L. Ward, T. B. Mumma and C. E. Pope of the Maryville Light and Power Co., were in town Tuesday in the interest of their local office and work. Their room on Main street is one of the most attractive business rooms on the street, and their local representative, Miss Farrell, seems to have made a great hit with the general public.

Frank Nicholas and Leonard Huston are in Omaha this week looking after cattle for their feed yards on their respective farms. They are getting ready for taking care of the bumper corn crop that each has produced this year.

Why not make a great industrial center of Burlington Junction. We have the resources and the railroad facilities. We are easily accessible to the markets of the world and why not line up for something of an industrial nature, and get things coming our way? Why not a cold storage plant, a milk condensing factory or many other concerns that would benefit the community. What we need is a large and co-operative civic organization, and every citizen resolve himself or herself into a booster for the town. Let's get busy and win.

The Rev. Trevor J. Winney, who last year was pastor of the Methodist Church in Burr Oak, was in town a few hours Tuesday on his way from Elmo, where he and his wife had been visiting. At the annual conference recently held in Stanberry, he was transferred to the pastorate of the Methodist Church in Union Star, Mo., and will assume his duties there next Sunday morning.

The Rev. A. L. Ragsdale, who has served the Christian Church as pastor during the past twelve months, is planning to remain another year in the same capacity. This will be good news to the entire community, as Mr. Ragsdale and his family have many friends both in and out of the church.

Miss Mary Dollison was a business visitor in St. Joseph Tuesday. She returned home on the evening train.

Miss Gladys Hahn, who is teaching school at Goff, Kan., will be at home Friday night for a week-end visit with her parents. Miss Gladys is teaching a very successful term of school at Goff.

Edwin Caldwell is sick at his home, seven miles southwest of town. Dr. Cossin, the attending physician, reports him convalescing.

The Misses Cordia and Marie Faust, west of Quitman, spent the week-end with their friend, Miss Anna Walker, last week, and attended church on Sunday. They returned to their home on Tuesday afternoon.

Everett Millet was in Omaha last Tuesday looking into the cattle market, with a view of purchasing a carload of feeders for his yards. Mr. Miller is one of the enterprising young farmers of northwest Nodaway County.

The Rev. J. Howard Thompson, pastor of the Methodist Church of Burlington Junction, appeared before the assembly of the High School last Tuesday morning and gave an address upon the "Animal Life of Yellowstone Park," dealing principally with the life and habits of the bears. Mr. Thompson visited that "Wonder Land" this summer and had many rare observations and experiences.

Bird Dog Makes Big Catch of Large Fish

Scotts Bluff, Neb., Sept. 29.—Something new in the art of fishing has been introduced here by Frank Smith, local fisherman.

While fishing recently, Smith, who was accompanied by his bird dog, saw several large fish carried through the headgate of a large dam into the river below. The fish appeared stunned by the fall and were floating on the surface.

Smith pointed the fish out to his dog. The dog swam out to them and soon had retrieved twelve fish, weighing about eight pounds each.

The VANITY CASE

by Carolyn Wells

IFA FICTION

© 1926 by G P PUTNAM SONS

BEGIN HERE TODAY.

MRS. PRENTISS sees lights mysteriously appear and disappear in the HEATH household next door one night and the next day Harbor Gardens, Long Island, is agog with the murder of MYRA HEATH and the disappearance of her husband, PERRY.

House guests of the Heaths are LAWRENCE INMAN, heir to Myra's fortune, and BUNNY MOORE, vivacious, golden-haired, to whom suspicion points because of her refusal to answer questions.

Myra Heath was peculiar. She never used cosmetics, never wore colors. She had a mania for collecting glass, and it was a rare old whisky bottle from her collection that the murderer used to kill her. Candles were burning at her head and feet and nearby was a card marked, "The Work of Perry Heath." Strangest of all, she was heavily made up and garbed in gay colors.

The peculiar thing about Heath's disappearance is that all the windows and doors had been locked on the inside the night before and were found that way in the morning. Finger prints of Bunny Moore and Inman were found on the bottle.

At the Country Club the murder is discussed by SAM ANDERSON, Heath's rival for the club presidency; AL CUNNINGHAM, who is trying to solve the crime, and others. Some believe Heath the murderer. Anderson disagrees. TODHUNTER BUCK, nephew of Mrs. Prentiss and in love with Bunny, suggests to Cunningham that Heath also may have been murdered.

EMMA, a waitress in the Heath home, tells of Seeing Bunny ascend the stairs about the time of the murder, carrying her vanity case. Later Bunny is amazed to get a phone call from Perry Heath advising her to keep silent.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXIII.

Mrs. Prentiss did not inquire and Bunny did not vouchsafe any information as to the identity of her telephone caller.

The girl went back to bed, and the older woman went to her room, but neither of them slept much. Toddy Buck, too, was wakeful, and when the three met at breakfast, though outwardly cheerful, there was an undercurrent of restraint and all were a little ill at ease.

The meal was nearly over, when Bunny was called to the telephone.

"I won't go!" she cried, petulantly. "You go for me, won't you, Mr. Buck?"

"No, Miss Moore," the waitress intervened, "the gentleman on the wire says he must speak to you personally."

With a sigh, Bunny rose and went to the small booth in the hall, where the instrument was.

As she had fully expected, the voice she heard was Perry Heath's.

"Don't speak," he said, "don't say a word. But, listen. You must be careful what you say or do. Emma has told a lot of stuff about you—probably lies—but she will make trouble for you if she can. I don't think she has it in for you exactly, but she loves to talk, and the detectives are getting a lot out of her.

"You'd better see her yourself, if you can, and manage to shut her mouth some way. Offer her money, if you can do it secretly. But be careful that no one knows it. And remember this, child. Inman did the deed. Inman is the criminal. If they come at you, and they will, you tell them he is the murderer of Myra. Now, remember all I've said, and don't go to pieces when they question you. You've nothing to fear—if you keep your secrets to yourself. But confide in anybody and you're lost."

"But—"

"Hush, don't speak. The very walls have ears. No one can hear what I say to you, but they can hear what you say to me. So, don't say a word. Don't tell anyone I have talked to you, don't tell anyone the whole truth. Let them hunt for me as much as they like—they'll never find me. Goodby, Little One, and try to forget me yourself."

The voice ceased abruptly, and the dead silence told Bunny she would hear nothing more.

She hung up the receiver, and walked slowly back to the porch, where the others still sat.

They looked at her so expectantly that she felt she must satisfy or at least allay their evident curiosity.

"It was a man I know," she said, slowly. "He thinks I am in danger, and warns me to be careful. Especially, he warns me against the waitress over at the Heath house. That Emma—he thinks she is telling tales about me."

"She is," Toddy spoke out bluntly. He had concluded that he could best help Bunny by telling her all he knew, and letting her profit by it.

"They are not true," Bunny said calmly. "Emma is making up stories."

"I heard her, last night," Buck said, not looking at her, but gazing intently at the cigaret he was lighting. "I have to admit, her statements had the ring of truth."

"Bah!" said his aunt. "you don't know truth when you hear it, Todhunter! You have about as much insight or intuition as a hitching post! Also, you're a gullible sort. If anybody told you the earth was flat, you'd begin to think that very likely it is."

Bunny smiled a little, but she looked at Buck, seriously.

"Did you really hear Emma talk?" she asked. "What did she say?"

Toddy hesitated, and then said: "I believe I'll tell you, for I think you ought to know. She declares she saw you going upstairs at half past one o'clock, the night of the murder. She says you were walking slowly, and you were carrying your vanity case—the one you have lost."

"How did Emma come to disclose this fact?" Bunny spoke coldly, her eyes almost glittered, and her whole expression was unlike her usual sunny smile.

"She said Carter told her to do it," Toddy went on, looking at her now, and trying to gather an inkling of her real thoughts.

"Carter!" Bunny gave a sudden start, and a frightened look appeared in her eyes.

In some ways, Toddy Buck had a single track mind. Just now, he was determined to find out something about Bunny's doing on the fatal night, and he took deliberate advantage of her present distraction to quiz her.

"You were downstairs, you know," he said, not accusingly, but as one stating a fact. "You saw the candles burning—"

"I—I saw those in the morning—" Bunny began, but Toddy said, inexorably:

"No: they had burned out when you entered that room in the morning. You went in with Doctor Conklin, and the candles had then gone out."

Bunny stared at him. But instead of losing her grip on herself, she seemed to be steadier, and she said, quietly:

"What are you trying to do? Trick me into some incriminating statement?"

"No." Buck looked at her kindly but very seriously. "I am trying to prepare you for others who will try to trick you into such admissions. For it is better you should know that there are such—that there are people who are beginning to think you have some knowledge of Mrs. Heath's death beyond what you have told."

"Oh, there are!" and now, Bunny's lovely mouth took on a scornful curve, her blue eyes stared haughtily and her golden, curly bob tossed with an air of utter contempt for the people of whom she had just been told.

"Will you be good enough," she said stonily, "to go to them and tell them to mind their own personal affairs?"

"But they consider this matter their own affair," Buck said, watching her. "You see, they are the detectives. That man, Mott, is just waiting a little longer for Perry Heath's return—"

"Perry Heath will never return," Bunny said, with a note of solemnity in her voice.

Mrs. Prentiss' intuition lifted its head.

"Was that Perry Heath talking to you on the telephone last night and this morning?" she demanded.

Bunny returned her gaze. "No," she said, simply, and shook her head.

The girl's mind worked like lightning. She wanted to confide in these kind friends, and ask their advice, but Perry Heath had forbidden her to say he had spoken to her, and his word was law.

Yet she must not antagonize these people with whom she was staying. She must make them believe in her truth and innocence. She must wheedle Mrs. Prentiss into a real friendship, and she must charm young Buck, until he was blind to her faults.

Well, these things ought to be easy for her—for Baby Moore, who had always, so far in her short life, charmed anybody she wished to.

But these folks were so—no, not suspicious—but so curious, yes, that was it, they were curious to know about her doings that night.

Well, they must not know, that was a sure thing! Why, her fingerprints and Larry's, too, were on that bottle, that awful bottle that had brought about the death of Myra!

And her vanity case—oh, why did they harp on that so? Did they know—oh, what did they know?

And just here, Mrs. Prentiss broke in on her thoughts again.

"What were you crying about so bitterly when Carter came to your room to tell you the sad news? Please tell us—it will be so much better for you to confide in friends. Now, if you tell us the whole story, we can understand the case better and we can be of real help to you."

"Oh, I can't—I can't—" and Bunny was crying now. Not sobbing, but just silently weeping, and the tears ran unheeded down her pink cheeks.

But they left no stain, for never once, since the sight of Myra and her painted face, had Bunny touched rouge or lipstick.

"Well, let me tell it, and you check me up," Toddy said.

"You went downstairs late at night to get your vanity box that you had left in the studio."

"How did you know that?"

"All right, I know," and he nodded his head in satisfaction, "Well, then, when you went in the room, you saw—Mrs. Heath—dead—"

"Oh, no, no!" and Bunny covered her eyes with her hands.

"Yes, dead—and the candles burning—"

"You're all wrong, Mr. Buck. I saw nothing of the sort. I—I didn't go down—"

"Then, when did you see those candles burning at the head and feet of Mrs. Heath?"

"I—I didn't see them at all. I almost felt as if I had seen them, because I heard them described so often—"

"Oh tut,tut, tut! Let up on the Fairy Tales. Now, little Miss Moore, I am ready to help you, my good aunt, here, is ready also, but we can't do it unless you are frank and truthful with us."

"You see, my dear," Mrs. Prentiss spoke gravely, "I am certain you knew of Mrs. Heath's death before Carter told you. That is why you were crying when the woman came to your room."

NODAWAY COUNTY FARM NEWS

By BILLY TILSON.

Guy Frankum and Peter Tunnell, northwest of Quitman, were transacting business in Maryville yesterday. Mr. Frankum detoured around by way of Skidmore. Mr. Tunnell chosing the Burlington Jct., route. Both report some very bad places on roads traveled.

H. A. Russell, southeast of Hopkins, was looking after business interests in the city yesterday. Henry says the farmers up that way are feeling the effects of the continued moist weather. Quite a few have a bunch of hogs that they are feeding and some are depending on the new corn. It is almost impossible to get into the fields to get the corn. Others are wanting to put out some wheat with no certainty as to when the condition of the ground will permit the seeding.

Reed Council and T. K. Russell, two enterprising young farmers, southeast of Graham, were transacting business in the city yesterday. These two young men have in the past few years been in the hog business making two large sales a year. They decided to try and see what could be done in the cattle line. Mr. Council had fifty-one head of well finished yearlings on the market Monday and Mr. Russell, seventy-one head of well-fed yearlings, both consignments brought $10.50 per hundred and they were both feeling good over the sale.

George Malony of Clyde and Tony Sheaffer of Conception Jct., were transacting business in Maryville yesterday.

Charles Donahue and family, southeast of Quitman, were shopping in the city yesterday. Mr. Donahue expects to put out forty acres of wheat this fall but hasn't decided just when he will commence sowing.

George Wray of the Myrtle Tree district was in the city yesterday. George says he has a fine bunch of hogs that he is getting ready for the market.

Pat Gorman and daughter, northeast of Maryville, were in the city yesterday. Mr. Gorman had the misfortune to lose his fine Shire stallion last week. This was one of the best horses ever brought into the county and the loss will be felt not only by Mr. Gorman but also by the farmers of that community as he had proven to be a great breeder. A 3-year horse by him now weighs 2030 pounds. This great horse and sire weighed 2340. Mr. Gorman says some of the corn in the fields is rotting and if damp weather continues considerable loss will be sustained. Pastures in that vicinity are making great growth and there will be plenty of fall grass for stock.

P. Bolin and son, J. O., southwest of Maryville, were in the city yesterday. Mr. Bolin brought in some of his well known brooms which had been ordered by some that will use no other.

Mrs. Chas. Baker and Mrs. Dow Huntsman visited the school Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Taft and son, Claude, were Sunday visitors at Harvey Davison's.

Fay Morehouse and family spent Friday evening at Leman Morehouse's.

Harve Grimes spent Saturday night at Fay Morehouse's.

Sim Lasley, jr., spent Wednesday night with his sister, Mrs. Belle Davison and family.

Mrs. Grover Sparks and children spent Sunday afternoon with Mrs. Millie Clymens and family.

Wm. Herbert was doing some papering for Harvey Davison Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Hodges and Mrs. Ross Wells was shopping in Maryville Thursday.

Nephew of Mrs. John Behm Dies.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Zug of Maysville, Mo., died in Noyes Hospital in St. Joseph at 3 a. m. this morning. Mrs. Zug was formerly Thelma Pearce, sister of Mrs. John Behm of this city.

Iowa Visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Vert of Lorimor, Iowa, are visiting at the homes of their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. John Vert, Mr. and Mrs. James Vert and Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Guthrie. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Vert of Lorimor will come Saturday to joint their parents and all will return to Lorimor together.

A BABY'S SORE MOUTH DUE TO NEGLECT

The Feeding Bottle May Look Clean Though Not Sterilized, So the Careful Mother Will Take Unusual Precautions.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator From New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

It is indeed a wonder that sore mouth is not more prevalent than it is. It is particularly surprising that a baby's mouth is not involved in inflammation most of the time.

You know how delicate is the lining membrane of the mouth. The covering of the lips and gums, the roof of the mouth and the cheeks, is thin and sensitive. Where the membrane is reflected upon the tongue it is equally sensitive.

After giving thought to the fragile nature of the lining of the mouth, give a little consideration to the things which enter that cavity. Grown-ups take hard crusts of bread, tough meat, rough nuts, and all sorts of things capable of cutting or damaging this thin membrane. Of course we become so adept in the use of the tongue and the teeth that the morsels of food are kept between the teeth and rarely do any damage to the soft tissues.

With a child gravity seems to center in the mouth. Everything a youngster picks up goes to the mouth. He stuffs into his mouth his toys, the contents of his mother's sewing basket, and failing everything else, puts his fist or his foot into the yawning cavity.

This practice does no particular harm unless the articles which find their way to the mouth are contaminated. A baby is more sensitive to dirt than he is to damage produced by natural things.

A nursing baby is capable of having a very serious inflammation of the mouth. The cause of it is uncleanliness of the rubber nipple on the nursing bottle. Nothing will more quickly disturb the comfort and health of a child than infection conveyed by an unclean nipple.

Since I have a baby in mind today, rather than a grown-up, I want to say a word about the care of the nursing bottles and the rubber nipples. With these, as with lots of other things with which we have to deal, it is too common a belief that uncleanliness is a visible thing. As a matter of fact there may be serious uncleanliness from a medical and surgical standpoint when the article in question appears to the eye to be perfectly clean. You may clean a lamp chimney so it shines and yet there may be left upon it millions of germs capable of producing disease.

When you are dealing with nursing bottles, rubber nipples, milk, food, or anything else where there is a doubt regarding contamination, all danger can be removed by boiling the articles. Everything used in preparing food for the baby should be boiled. All the utensils necessary for the preparation of the food should be boiled before they are used. The greatest possible care should be used regarding the rubber nipples because the material from which they are manufactured makes it easy for them to become seriously contaminated.

Whenever a baby develops a sore mouth it is almost proof conclusive that there has been a lack of cleanliness. It is quite likely that the uncleanliness is of the nursing bottle or of the nipple.

Where Mine Blast Trapped 46

Three men were instantly killed and 43 more trapped far below the surface by a cave-in at the G. P. Pabst iron mine in Ironwood, Mich. This picture shows relatives of the entombed men grouped about the mine shaft as the bodies of the three dead men were brought to the surface.

When St. Louis Won That Flag.

The riotous celebrations of Armistice Day paled into insignificance in St. Louis when the news came that the Cardinals had won the National League pennant—the city's first pennant since the early '80s. Business stopped and the whole city turned out to make a noise. This shows one of the downtown streets.

Giving the Champ a Ducking

Wilbur Marx, 15-year-old Eau Claire (Wis.) schoolboy, nearly won the world's log-rolling championship at the annual tournament at Washburn, Wis. This picture shows him just as he put William F. Girard, the champion, in the water after a 20-minute struggle. Girard later beat him twice and held his title. The sport was developed by lumbermen. The contestants stand on a floating log and try to jar each other off.

CLOSING GRAIN REVIEW.

Chicago, Sept. 29.—Good buying demand gave grains a higher close on the Chicago Board of Trade today. Wheat closed 1⅜ to 2¼ higher than yesterday. The market had an early sinking spell on free selling by locals but a good demand caused a sharp rally. The strength in corn, short covering, firm cash prices and Winnipeg reports contributed to the bulge.

Locals sold corn early but encountered good buying in the pit. The market was steadied by noon and went up sharply later in the session on news of some damage in Missouri where water is reported inside the husks.

Oats was a rather dull affair. The close was from ⅛ to ⅜ higher on the strength of the other pits.

Provisions closed higher on better corn and hog prices.

HARMONY

Sunday School every Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, no matter what the items say.

Mr. and Mrs. B. K. Lewis and little daughter, Helen, were trading in Maryville last Wednesday.

A heavy rain fell in the Orrsburg neighborhood Wednesday morning.

Quite a number of the men of the church were working Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of last week at repairs on the church property. The cave at the parsonage was almost entirely rebuilt and is now in splendid condition. Cement gutters were constructed under the down spouts on on the church and there was a general picking up of the odds and ends in general.

Wm. Woodburn is erecting a fine residence on his farm in the northeast part of this neighborhood.

Sunday School was well attended Sunday morning considering the threatening weather. The services during the last few weeks have been greatly broken into by rainy weather and muddy roads and it is hoped that services can be held more regularly the next month or so at least. At the Sunday morning hour arrangements were made to have Rev. Peterson to preach to this congregation Thursday evening September 30th, with a view to employing him as a resident pastor, providing arrangements mutually satisfactory can be made.

Truman Young and daughter, Miss Crystal, and little son, Verlin, of the Orrsburg neighborhood, were attendants at the Sunday School last Sunday.

Mrs. O'Neal, who expected to move her household goods from Quitman to the house on the Newt Moore farm, where she and her mother will live this winter, was obliged to postpone moving operations on account of bad roads.

Mr. and Mrs. Ford entertained the basketball boys at a supper in honor of their victory Friday afternoon.

A quintet from Bloomdale District came down and played our boys a practice game of basketball last Wednesday evening. Those playing were Harry and Harold Copeland, Ernest and Earl Shaar and "Springy". They played a mighty good game and our boys were fortunate in holding the long end of a 6-3 score.

A new Dayton DeLuxe steel racquet is now in play on our tennis courts; it is a gift to the school by the Senior Class of 1926. Thanks boys.

Harold Hilton visited high school last Tuesday.

Through the kindness of R. V. McKee the following girls of the sewing class visited the "Style Show" at the Yehle Emporium last Thursday afternoon. Velda McCall, Olge McKee, Beulah Wray and Kathryn Lewis.

The second conference game in the outdoor basketball league was played on our home court with the team from Conception High School. Our boys won the game by a score of 17 to 11. Orville Hedges, now a student of S. T. C., but formerly a player on the Conception team, acted as referee to the satisfaction of both sides.

Ward Four, Elcelsior, conducted a very successful market window at the Bee Hive store in Maryville last Saturday. The patrons contributed very liberally and a nice sum was realized from the sale of the eatables. The teacher, Miss Dorris McKee, the students, and the patrons are working very hard to secure the necessary equipment to make this school "First Class." Of course they will succeed.

Ward Two (Pioneer) taught by Mrs. O'Neal will present Tuesday afternoon at 2:30, a Frances Willard program. Invitations are out to the patrons and all friends of the school to attend.

Our Indian operetta will be given Tuesday evening Oct. 12. Come and hear the bright and sparkling songs, and music. It will be well given.

Auxvasse—The first night of the street fair that will be held here October 7 and 8 will be devoted in part to a horse show.

Poplar Bluff—This city's first public park has been formally dedicated. The ground later will be used by the Masons to erect a temple, but they have turned it over to the city for a time.

Fisk—Joseph Elfers, a farmer, is displaying a pear here that weighs a pound and three ounces.

Charles McCaffrey went to St. Joseph on business today.

BEARCATS IN ACTION SOON

OPENING OF FOOTBALL SEASON ONLY TWO DAYS AWAY.

TEAM HARD TO PICK

Backfield Is Likely to Show Little Change. Line Is Different.—First Game At St. Joseph.

With the beginning of the State Teachers College football season just two days off, Coaches H. Frank Lawrence and Paul Jones are facing the problem of choosing the eleven men who will start the game against Missouri Wesleyan College at St. Joseph Friday afternoon.

With eleven letter men and as many other candidates who look equally as promising, the Bearcat mentors are doing some tall old head scratching in an effort to choose a combination which will represent the maximum of strength for the opening tilt of the season.

In the backfield the problem is least. Here the coaches have four backs from last year who played almost regularly. Captain Eads, Search, and Willoughby seem likely to start Friday's game. As their running mate, Miller seems probable, but the coaches also have Wilson and O'Banion.

In the line the choice will be more difficult. Here the mentors have a dozen men of whom all are capable of filling the starting berths. Likely the greatest problem of all will be to select the running mate for "Red" Berst at the wing position. Lawrence and Jones have "Mother" Joy and Burt Irwin, both of whom have been showing up well in scrimmage. They also have "Fat" Lewis, who may be shifted to an end position.

Graham seems sure to start at center, but the choice of guards and tackles has not been made, and probably will not be announced until the beginning of the game Friday afternoon. It is certain that the coaches will have enough reserve material to make speedy changes in case their starting combination does not work successfully.

The game Friday will be played at League Park in St. Joseph. It will start at 3 o'clock. The game is being sponsored by the high schools of St. Joseph, who will handle all arrangements and who will take a "cut" on the gate receipts.

Edward W. Cochrane, sports editor of the Kansas City Journal-Post, will referee the game. The other officials have not been chosen.

Mrs. Hawes Makes Her Maiden Speech

Wife of Democratic Senatorial Candidate Says She Is "Silent Member of Firm."

Mrs. Harry B. Hawes, wife of Harry B. Hawes, Democratic nominee for United States senator, last night made her maiden "speech" of the campaign.

"Our firm was organized twenty-five years ago and I am the silent partner of Hawes & Co.," she smilingly told twenty-five men and women who attended a dinner for Mr. and Mrs. Hawes at the Linville hotel last night. She thanked the women for their many courtesies during her visit here.

Mrs. Hawes addressed her hosts in response to a request by C. F. McCaffrey, chairman of the county committee. Representative Hawes told the diners he was elated over the spirit of harmony he had encountered in the state.

"I believe I will wipe out the Republican majority in St. Louis," he said. "Democracy in Missouri has lost only once in forty-seven years in a non-presidential election year."

Dr. J. C. Whitsell of St. Joseph, Democratic candidate for congress, also spoke briefly.

OUR COLLEGE

What The Students Out On The Hill Are Doing

The student body at the State Teachers College is "talkin' politics." With the annual election of student officers but a week and a day off, the political leaders of the student body are stirring about in their efforts to "put across" certain candidates.

By a student council ruling, candidates must be nominated for the offices of president and vice-president of the student body at a primary held a week before the general election. This primary will be held tomorrow.

It is legal, however, to "present" the names of students for the offices, and Cleo T. Wyman of Grant City and Burdette Yeo of Maryville are the horses in the race for the presidency of the student body.

At the primary tomorrow, students may ballott on any person for the two offices, and the three highest in each race will go on the ticket for the general election next Thursday.

The weekly assembly at the College this morning was under the leadership of Henry A. Foster, chairman of the history department. Mr. Foster was recently elected president of the faculty council at the College. This means that in the absence of President Uel W. Lamkin he will be acting head of the school.

The Rev. W. N. Dewar led the devotionals at the assembly this morning.

The Social Science Club of the College will hold its first meeting of the year at 4:20 o'clock this afternoon.

There will be an important meeting of the senior class at the College at 2:20 o'clock Friday afternoon.

With school now in its third week, things are rounding into shape and all organizations are getting under way. The literary societies and religious organizations are planning an extensive activity program for the quarter, and the former are already making plans for the inter-society contests for next spring.

In the neighborhood of 200 students attended the first meeting of the Dramatics Club in the College auditorium last night. This club will meet again on the second Tuesday night in October.

Miss Violet Eastman, dramatics instructor, gave two readings last night. Her first was "A pair of Shoes" by Herman Hagedorn, and the second was "A Change for Edward" by Mary Stewart Cutting.

The Maryville churches are uniting tonight in an entertainment for College students. The program has been planned so that students can be at their homes at the regular hour. The affair will not count as a "date night" but will be "free", Miss Edith A. Barnard, dean of women, announced this morning.

F. M. Liddle, state boys' work secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association, met with the College Y. M. C. A. cabinet this morning. Mr. Liddle will have charge of part of the supervision of school work in the state this year.

The girls' pep squad at the College is already making plans for the "stunts" to be given at football games this year. It is understood that this organization will furnish some sort of entertainment at St. Joseph Friday between halves of the Maryville-Missouri Wesleyan football game.

Is Named Member of Attendance Committee

D. A. Caldwell Appointed To Aid In Securing Delegates To National Commercial Secretaries Meeting.

D. A. Caldwell, secretary of the Maryville Chamber of Commerce, has been appointed a member of the Missouri attendance committee for the twelfth annual convention of the National Association of Commercial Organization Secretaries to be held October 24-27 at Pittsburgh, Pa.

Mr. Caldwell was notified of his appointment by George Pickens, general secretary of the Missouri Association.

The other members of the Missouri committee are: E. C. Hackett, Cape Girardeau; E. L. Barnes, Kirksville; J. C. Patterson, Marshall; L. E. Slate, Columbia, and Miss Temple Burrus, Mexico.

A post-Convention trip to the Sesqui-Centennial Exposition at Philadelphia is a part of the most attractive program. More than four hundred commercial secretaries from all parts of the United States are expected to attend.

Last year the convention was held at Kansas City, which was the first time that it had been held west of the Mississippi River. In addition to attending the Kansas City convention, Mr. Caldwell attended the Chicago meeting in 1920 and the New Orleans convention the following year.

Hogs 7 Months Old Weigh 263½ Pounds

The Maryville Shipping Association yesterday sent to the St. Joseph market a shipment of 77 hogs consigned by R. J. Sawyers from his farm, four miles northwest of Maryville. Although the hogs were less than 7 months old, they averaged 263½ pounds. The pigs were farrowed on the last day of February.

M. H. S. HOPES ARE BRIGHTER

STAR OF LAST YEAR'S SPOOFHOUNDS RETURNS.

FIRST GAME FRIDAY

Inexperience Will Be Chief Handicap In Opening Contest With Chillicothe Hornets.

Candidates for the Maryville High School football this team are being put through grilling practices this week in preparation for the first game on the high school schedule, to be played here Friday with Chillicothe.

No report has been received on the Hornets, except that they are in good condition, but the Chillicothe Constitution predicts that they "will give Maryville a trimming." The Hornets had a practice game last Thursday, but the contest here Friday will be their first formal engagement of the season.

Prospects for the Spoofhounds are brightening, according to Coaches Croy and Hugh Graham. Although there is not a great deal of material to pick from this year a number of good "finds" have been made.

The greatest single boost to the Spoofhound hopes came last Friday, when Charles ("Red") Kissinger, a mainstay of last year's team, re-enrolled in school after moving to Washington with his parents. Kissinger can fill either the fullback or a halfback position. He is a senior and will be playing his fourth year on the team.

At quarter, Coach Croy has been trying Stewart Bush, Fay Howard and Kenneth Swinford. All three are likely looking ball luggers, but they all are playing their first year and lack experience.

It is this inexperience in the backfield that is giving the coaches the most worry just now. With the exception of Kissinger, there is no backfield veteran from last year. The nearest approach is George Hall, who has been shifted from a tackle position and is showing so well that he probably will be started at halfback. Other possibilities for the half positions, all of them playing their first year, are Swinford, Junior Stanfield, Harry Wilson, John Dooley, Edward Clary and Harold Daniels.

In Ray Keever the coaches have found a player who appears to be a "comer," either at fullback or half.

There are four veterans in the line, so Coach Graham, who looks after this department of play, will have somewhat less of a problem. Leland Smith, Junior Curnutt and William Alsup are the leading aspirants for the ball passing position at center. All of them are playing their first year.

For guards, Graham has Frank Nichols, a second-year man, Ben Thompson, John Hall and Donald Warner. The tackles apparently will be well taken care of by Gene Howard, playing his third year, and Curtis New, playing his second, with Jack Sorrie and Walter Dow, first-year men, pushing them hard. The flank positions also will find veterans in Richard Holt, playing his third year, and James Alsup, who has had one year of experience. First year candidates who are showing up well are Victor Mumma, Jack Gray and George McMurry.

There are other candidates who the coaches believe will make good material as the season advances.

The daily workouts have been held on the high school grounds, but the squad will be taken to the State Teachers College field tomorrow afternoon to familiarize themselves with the grid on which the opening struggle will be waged.

Hopkins High School Wants Tennis Meets

Hopkins High School would like to secure some dual tennis meets with teams from towns in the county or nearby, according to a letter from Norvel Sayler, one of the Hopkins players. All communications should be addressed to C. E. Grace, principal, Hopkins High School.
